

The building from the north

On these pages appear pictures of the present state of the large building on which we at Black Mountain College have been working since September. No one who has not worked on it will realize fully our excitement in seeing these pictures and in comparing them to our memory of the unbroken site. We want to convey this excitement to you, and to make clear the importance of the project, not only to us, the students of the College, but also to you outside the College.

(continued on page 5)